Spirit of America
FEIN: 20-1687786

STATEMENT A
Mission and Objectives

Spirit of America's mission is to support the safety and success of US troops and diplomats and the local people and partners they seek to help.

What We Do

In 2014 Spirit of America spent over $258,000 on over 60 projects worldwide for humanitarian, civic, and economic assistance in direct response to needs identified by US troops and diplomats worldwide.

Afghanistan

The Fall of 2014 marked the end of Spirit of America's persistent presence in Afghanistan, but our field representatives continued to serve as key partners to US Special Operations Forces (SOF) working to stabilize some of the most challenging parts of the country. We increased the capacity of local governance structures by providing computers and radio station equipment, funding shura meals to facilitate dialogue, and supporting women's vocational programs. We supported small-scale development initiatives – veterinary and agricultural training programs, educational and vocational supplies, and water pumps – to improve the futures of local populations. We provided Afghan security forces winter clothing, radios, tourniquets, and other nonlethal equipment to help protect innocent civilians. And, we provided humanitarian assistance to address emergent needs, funding items such as winter clothing, medical supplies, and emergency food supplies.

Kurdistan/Iraq

In the Kurdish region of northern Iraq, we worked with the US Agency for International Development (USAID) at the Consulate in Erbil to react to a key gap in the humanitarian crisis that followed ISIS' capture of Mosul. Spirit of America provided 40,000 pairs of boots to the most vulnerable young refugees in the region, giving them protection during the harsh winter months. In addition to addressing a critical unmet need, this project also helped strengthen relationships with key members within the Kurdish and refugee populations.

Syria

We worked with the State Department's office in Turkey on their program to support independent Syrian media outlets. These stations, primarily focused on radio broadcasts, serve as honest brokers of information for the local population, providing information on impending attacks, commodities pricing, and other critical information. In addition, the staffs of these media platforms are envisioned as the foundation of Syrian civil society when the conflict eventually concludes. To support these efforts, we funded a longitudinal study of Syrian media consumption and preferences as well as 500 hand-cranked, solar-powered radios to one of the most successful stations.
